EON VENTURE INVESTS IN REGIONAL SECURITY COMPANY

EON Venture invests in ProGuard Security Services

San Francisco, CA - EON Venture, a business development firm focused on investing in growing and mature markets, announced that the firm is making a capital investment into ProGuard Security Services. EON Venture is taking an active stake position in the security service company, citing ProGuard's focus on customer satisfaction and security customization as a reason to invest. The investment in ProGuard Security Services is part of the company's long-term investment strategy in the security industry.

ProGuard Security Services is a San Francisco based company that provides contracted security services to mid-size and large organizations. The company offers highly integrated security solution with a high level of automation and built-in technology to deliver quality security services.

In addition to lending its expertise in security technology, which includes developing new technology and acquiring larger accounts, EON Venture will take an active role in building the executive team for ProGuard Security Services.

"EON Venture has previously invested in the security industry and continues to see great investment opportunities in this industry. It is our intent to leverage the expertise held within EON Venture to support ProGuard's future growth. ProGuard is on a path to become a large regional security company covering the entire western United States. EON Venture is focused on making capital and management investments in companies with great growth potential. This investment is in line with EON's overall investment strategy" said Mr. Welin, President and Founder of EON Venture. "EON Venture will continue to make these strategic investments into quality companies within our selected markets".

The capital base will enable ProGuard Security Services to further invest into new technologies and building supportive infrastructure. Furthermore, the company will continue to acquire security contracts from large organizations such as government agencies, museums, and universities.

"This investment through EON Venture is of great strategic value to ProGuard", says Sergio Reyes, CEO of ProTech Security and co-owner of ProGuard. "The investment will allow ProGuard to grow in new markets and service new clients. ProGuard will continue to grow by providing services to clients with specialized security needs. The company will continue to make investments into new technologies and make key hires.”
